31 MEMBERS TO THE LEAGUE

As in the original document, the covenant provides that the league shall act through an assembly, in which each state shall have one vote and not more than three delegates, and a council, comprising for the present one representative of each of the five great powers to be selected from time to time by the assembly. Members of each class represented on the council may be increased by unanimous consent of the council and a majority of the assembly. The text provides that nothing in the covenant shall be deemed "to affect the validity of international engagements such as treaties of arbitration or regional understandings like the Monroe Doctrine for securing the maintenance of peace." This was the amendment for which President Wilson made a successful fight at the same time the Japanese delegation to the peace conference sought vainly to have a race equality provision inserted in the covenant.

Mark Twain's Toast to "Babies"

Responding to the toast of "Babies" at the memorial Chicago banquet in honor of General Grant in 1870, Mark Twain concluded with a sentence that set the gathering in an uproar. In his inimitable drawing voice he said: "In his cradle, somewhere under the flag, the future illustrious commander-in-chief of the American armies is so little burdened with his approaching grandeur and responsibilities as to be giving his whole strategic mind, at this moment, to trying to find some way to get his own big toe into his mouth, an achievement which (meaning no disrespect) the illustrious guest of this evening also turned his attention to some fifty-six years ago. And if the child is but the father of the man there are mighty few who will doubt that he succeeded!" At that conclusion the audience broke into cheers and roars of laughter in which even the reserved Grant joined.

SERVICE

What the public is interested in, insofar as power and light companies are concerned, is SERVICE. If a power company does not give proper service, the consideration which the public has extended to the power company is not returned. Enlightened modern management recognizes this fact and therefore makes every effort within its financial and physical ability to render such service. This is not only a sentimental consideration. It is best business policy. No power company can successfully operate in a community amid dissension, discord and dissatisfaction between itself and its patrons. It has been the experience of this company that its efforts to render good service have been understood and appreciated, and that it has been supported in its endeavors to so arrange its affairs as to give such service.

The year just passed has been an extremely trying one. Many of our men were called to the colors. Requisition by the government for war time needs made it impossible to secure many kinds of equipment and material used in our business, and what could be obtained by release was most expensive, still we struggled on for SERVICE, and it has been a matter of special gratification to the company to note the cheerfulness with which our patrons have excused the little interruptions which conditions made it impossible to avoid. The current year will see an improvement which we believe will fully satisfy our friends.
